

REALITY SANDWICHES

ALLEN GINSBERG

REALITY SANDWICHES 1953 - 60
ALLEN GINSBERG

'Scribbled secret notebooks, and wild typewritten pages, for yr own joy'

Dedicated to the Pure Imaginary POET Gregory Corso

Acknowledgement

Anyone who asked for writings I sent them -- the Needle, Provincetown Review, Mattachine Review, Beatitude, Yugen, Evergreen Review, Swank, Partisan Review, White Dove, Chicago Review, i.e. Cambridge Review, New Directions 16, Greecourt Review, Combustion, Folio, Isis, Nomad, Venture, The Beat Scene, Rhinozerous, Hasty Papers, & Between Worlds.

Contents:

My Alba
Sakyamuni Coming out from the Mountain
The Green Automobile
Havana
Siesta in Xbalba
On Burroughs' Work
Love Poem on Theme By Whitman
Over Kansas
Malest Cornifici Tuo Catullo
Dream Record
Blessed be the muses
Fragment 1956
A Strange New Cottage in Berkeley
Sather Gate Illumination
Scribble
Afternoon Seattle
Psalm III
Tears
Ready To Roll
Wrote This Last Night
Squeal
American Change
'Back on Times Square, Dreaming of Times Square'
My Sad Self
Funny Death
Battleship Newsreel
I Beg You Come Back & Be Cheerful
To An Old Poet in Peru
Aether

MY ALBA

Now that I've wasted five years in Manhattan life decaying talent a blank talking disconnected patient and mental sliderule and number machine on a desk autographed triplicate synopsis and taxes obedient prompt poorly paid stayed on the market youth of my twenties fainted in offices wept on typewriters deceived multitudes in vast conspiracies deodorant battleships serious business industry every six weeks whoever drank my blood bank innocent evil now part of my system five years unhappy labor 22 to 27 working not a dime in the bank to show for it anyway dawn breaks it's only the sun the East smokes O my bedroom I am damned to Hell what alarmclock is ringing

NY 1953

SAKYAMUNI COMING OUT FROM THE MOUNTAIN

Liang Kai, Southern Sung

He drags his bare feet out of a cave under a tree, eyebrows grown long with weeping and hooknosed woe, in ragged soft robes wearing a fine beard, unhappy hands clasped to his naked breast -- humility is beatness
humility is beatness -- faltering into the bushes by a stream, all things inanimate but his intelligence -- stands upright there tho trembling:
Arhat who sought Heaven under a mountain of stone, sat thinking till he realized the land of blessedness exists in the imagination -- the flash come:
empty mirror -- how painful to be born again wearing a fine beard, reentering the world a bitter wreck of a sage: earth before him his only path.
We can see his soul, he knows nothing like a god:
shaken meek wretch --
humility is beatness
before the absolute World.
NY Public Library 1953

THE GREEN AUTOMOBILE

If I had a Green Automobile I'd go find my old companion in his house on the Western ocean.
Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha!
I'd honk my horn at his manly gate, inside his wife and three children sprawl naked on the living room floor.
He'd come running out to my car full of heroic beer and jump screaming at the wheel for he is the greater driver.
We'd pilgrimage to the highest mount of our earlier Rocky Mountain visions laughing in each others arms, delight surpassing the highest Rockies, and after old agony, drunk with new years, bounding toward the snowy horizon blasting the dashboard with original bop hot rod on the mountain we'd batter up the cloudy highway where angels of anxiety careen through the trees and scream out of the engine.
We'd burn all night on the jackpine peak seen from Denver in the summer dark, forestlike unnatural radiance illuminating the mountaintop: childhood youthtime age & eternity would open like sweet trees in the nights of another spring and dumbfound us with love, for we can see together the beauty of souls hidden like diamonds in the clock of the world, like Chinese magicians can confound the immortals with our intellectuality hidden in the mist, in the Green Automobile which I have invented imagined and visioned on the roads of the world more real than the engine on a track in the desert purer than Greyhound and swifter than physical jetplane.
Denver! Denver! we'll return roaring across the City & County Building lawn which catches the pure emerald flame streaming in the wake of our auto.

This time we'll buy up the city!
I cashed a great check in my skull bank to found a miraculous college of the body up on the bus terminal roof.
But first we'll drive the stations of downtown, poolhall flophouse jazzjoint jail whorehouse down Folsom to the darkest alleys of Larimer paying respects to Denver's father lost on the railroad tracks, stupor of wine and silence hallowing the slum of his decades, salute him and his saintly suitcase of dark muscatel, drink and smash the sweet bottles on Diesels in allegiance.
Then we go driving drunk on boulevards where armies march and still parade staggering under the invisible banner of Reality -- hurtling through the street in the auto of our fate we share an archangelic cigarette and tell each others' fortunes: fames of supernatural illumination, bleak rainy gaps of time, great art learned in desolation and we beat apart after six decades. . . . and on an asphalt crossroad, deal with each other in princely gentleness once more, recalling famous dead talks of other cities.
The windshield's full of tears, rain wets our naked breasts, we kneel together in the shade amid the traffic of night in paradise and now renew the solitary vow we made each other take in Texas, once:
I can't inscribe here. . . .
.
.
How many Saturday nights will be made drunken by this legend?
How will young Denver come to mourn her forgotten sexual angel?
How many boys will strike the black piano in imitation of the excess of a native saint?
Or girls fall wanton under his spectre in the high schools of melancholy night?
While all the time in Eternity in the wan light of this poem's radio we'll sit behind forgotten shades hearkening the lost jazz of all Saturdays.
Neal, we'll be real heroes now in a war between our cocks and time:

let's be the angels of the world's desire and take the world to bed with us before we die.

Sleeping alone, or with companion, girl or fairy sheep or dream, I'll fail of lacklove, you, satiety: all men fall, our fathers fell before, but resurrecting that lost flesh is but a moment's work of mind: an ageless monument to love in the imagination:
memorial built out of our own bodies consumed by the invisible poem -- We'll shudder in Denver and endure though blood and wrinkles blind our eyes.

So this Green Automobile:

I give you in flight a present, a present from my imagination.

We will go riding over the Rockies, we'll go on riding all night long until dawn, then back to your railroad, the SP your house and your children and broken leg destiny you'll ride down the plains in the morning: and back to my visions, my office and eastern apartment I'll return to New York.
NY 1953

HAVANA 1953

I

The night cafe -- 4AM Cuba Libre 20c:
white tiled squares, triangular neon lights, long wooden bar on one side, a great delicatessen booth on the other facing the street.
In the center among the great city midnight drinkers, by Aedama Palace on Gomez corner, white men and women with standing drums, mariachis, voices, guitars -- drumming on tables, knives on bottles, banging on the floor and on each other, with wooden clacks, whistling, howling, fat women in strapless silk.
Cop talking to the fat nosed girl in a flashy black dress.
In walks a weird Cezanne vision of the nowhere hip Cuban: tall, thin, check grey suit, grey felt shoes, blaring gambler's hat, Cab Calloway pimp's mustachio
-- it comes down to a point in the center -- rushing up generations late talking Cuban, pointing a gold ringed finger up toward the yellowed ceiling, other cigarette hand pointing stiff-armed down at his side, effeminate: -- he sees the cop -- they rush together -- they're embracing like long lost brothers -- fatnose forgotten.
Delicate chords from the negro guitarino -- singers at El Rancho Grande, drunken burlesque screams of agony, VIVA JALISCO!
I eat a catfish sandwich with onions and red sauce 20c.

II

A truly romantic spot, more guitars, Columbus Square across from Columbus Cathedral
-- I'm in the Paris Restaurant adjacent, best in town, Cuba Libres 30c -- weatherbeaten tropical antiquity, as if rock decayed, unlike the pure Chinese drummers of black stone whose polished harmony can still be heard (Procession of Musicians) at the Freer, this with its blunt cornucopias and horns of conquest made of stone -- a great dumb rotting church.
Night, lights from windows, high stone balconies on the antique square, green rooms paled by florescent houselighting, a modern convenience.
I feel rotten.
I would sit down with my servants and be dumb.
I spent too much money.
White electricity in the gaslamp fixtures of the alley.
Bullet holes and nails in the stone wall.
The worried headwaiter standing amid the potted palms in cans in the fifteen foot wooden door looking at me.
Mariachi harmonica artists inside getting around to Banjo on My Knee yet.
They dress in wornout sharpie clothes.
Ancient streetlights down the narrow Calle I face, the arch, the square, palms, drunkenness, solitude; voices across the street, baby wail, girl's squeak, waiters nudging each other, grumble and cackle of young boys' laughter in streetcorner waits, perro barking off-stage, baby strangling again, banjo and harmonica, auto rattle and a cool breeze -- Sudden paranoid notion the waiters are watching me: Well they might, four gathered in the doorway and I alone at a table on the patio in the dark observing the square, drunk.
25c for them and I asked for "Jalisco" -- at the end of the song oxcart rolls by obtruding its wheels o'er the music o' the night.

SIESTA IN XBALBA and RETURN TO THE STATES

dedicated to Karena Shields

I.

Late sun opening the book, blank page like light, invisible words uncrawled, impossible syntax of apocalypse -- Uxmal: Noble Ruins
No construction -- let the mind fall down.
-- One could pass valuable months and years perhaps a lifetime doing nothing but lying in a hammock reading prose with the white doves copulating underneath and monkeys barking in the interior of the mountain and I have succumbed to this temptation --
'They go mad in the Selva --' the madman read and laughed in his hammock eyes watching me: unease not of the jungle the poor dear, can tire one -- all that mud and all those bugs . . .
ugh. . .
Dreaming back I saw an eternal kodachrome souvenir of a gathering of souls at a party, crowded in an oval flash: cigarettes, suggestions, laughter in drunkenness, broken sweet conversation, acquaintance in the halls, faces posed together, stylized gestures, odd familiar visages and singular recognitions that registered indifferent greeting across time: Anson reading Horace with a rolling head, white-handed Hohnsbean camping gravely with an absent glance, bald Kingsland drinking out of a huge glass, Dusty in a party dress, Durgin in white shoes gesturing from a chair, Keck in a corner waiting for subterranean music, Helen Parker lifting her hands in surprise:

all posturing in one frame, superficially gay or tragic as may be, illumed with the fatal character and intelligent actions of their lives.
And I in a concrete room above the abandoned labyrinth of Palenque measuring my fate, wandering solitary in the wild -- blinking singleminded at a bleak idea -- until exhausted with its action and contemplation my soul might shatter at one primal moment's sensation of the vast movement of divinity.
As I leaned against a tree inside the forest expiring of self-begotten love, I looked up at the stars absently, as if looking for something else in the blue night through the boughs, and for a moment saw myself leaning against a tree . . .
. . . back there the noise of a great party in the apartments of New York, half-created paintings on the walls, fame, cocksucking and tears, money and arguments of great affairs, the culture of my generation . . . my own crude night imaginings, my own crude soul notes taken down in moments of isolation, dreams, piercings, sequences of nocturnal thought and primitive illuminations -- uncanny feeling the white cat sleeping on the table will open its eyes in a moment and be looking at me --.
One might sit in this Chiapas recording the apparitions in the field visible from a hammock looking out across the shadow of the pasture in all the semblance of Eternity . . . a dwarfed thatch roof down in the grass in a hollow slope under the tall crowd of vegetation waiting at the wild edge: the long shade of the mountain beyond in the near distance, its individual hairline of trees traced fine and dark along the ridge against the transparent sky light, rifts and holes in the blue air and amber brightenings of clouds disappearing down the other side into the South . . .

palms with lethargic feelers rattling in presage of rain, shifting their fronds in the direction of the balmy wind, monstrous animals sprayed up out of the ground settling and unsettling as in water . . .
and later in the night a moment of premonition when the plenilunar cloudfilled sky is still and small.
So spent a night with drug and hammock at Chichen Itza on the Castle:-- I can see the moon moving over the edge of the night forest and follow its destination through the clear dimensions of the sky from end to end of the dark circular horizon.
High dim stone portals, entablatures of illegible scripture, bas-reliefs of unknown perceptions: and now the flicker of my lamp and smell of kerosene on dust-strewn floor where ant wends its nightly ritual way toward great faces worn down by rain.
In front of me a deathshad half a thousand years old -- and have seen cocks a thousand old grown over with moss and batshit stuck out of the wall in a dripping vaulted house of rock -- but deathshad's here on portal still and thinks its way through centuries the thought of the same night in which I sit in skully meditation

-- sat in many times before by artisan other than me until his image of ghostly change appeared unalterable -- but now his fine thought's vaguer than my dream of him:
and only the crude skull figurement's gaunt insensible glare is left, with its broken plumes of sensation and indecipherable headdresses of intellect scattered in the madness of oblivion to holes and notes of elemental stone, blind face of animal transcendency over the holy ruin of the world dissolving into the sunless wall of a blackened room on a time-rude pyramid rebuilt in the bleak flat night of Yucatan where I come with my own mad mind to study alien hieroglyphs of Eternity.
A creak in the rooms scared me.
Some sort of bird, vampire or swallow, flees with little paper wingflap around the summit in its own air unconcerned with the great stone tree I perch on.
Continual metallic whirr of chicharras, then lesser chirps of cricket: 5 blasts of the leg whistle.
The creak of an opening door in the forest, some sort of weird birdsong or reptile croak.
My hat woven of hennequin on the stone floor as a leaf on the waters, as perishable;
my candle wavers continuously and will go out.
Pale Uxmal, unhistoric, like a dream, Tulum shimmering on the coast in ruins; Chichen Itza naked constructed on a plain; Palenque, broken chapels in the green basement of a mount; lone Kabah by the highway; Piedras Negras buried again by dark archaeologists; Yaxchilan resurrected in the wild, and all the limbo of Xbalba still unknown -- floors under roofcomb of branch, foundation to ornament tumbled to the flowers, pyramids and stairways raced with vine, limestone corbels down in the river of trees, pillars and corridors sunken under the flood of years: Time's slow wall overtopping all that firmament of mind, as if a shining waterfall of leaves and rain were built down solid from the endless sky through which no thought can pass.

A great red fat rooster mounted on a tree stump in the green afternoon, the ego of the very fields, screams in the holy sunlight!

-- I can't think with that supersonic cock intensity crucifying my skull in its imaginery sleep.

-- was looking back with eyes shut to where they crawled like ants on brown old temples building their minute ruins and disappearing into the wild leaving many mysteries of deathly volition to be divined.

I alone know the great crystal door to the House of Night, a legend of centuries

-- I and a few indians.

And had I mules and money I could find the Cave of Amber and the Cave of Gold rumored of the cliffs of Tumbala.

I found the face of one of the Nine Guardians of the Night hidden in a mahogany hut in the Area of Lost Souls

-- first relic of kind for that place.

And I found as well a green leaf shaped like a human heart; but to whom shall I send this anachronistic valentine?

Yet these ruins so much woke me to nostalgia for the classic stations of the earth,

the ancient continent

I have not seen and the few years of memory left before the ultimate night of war.

As if these ruins were not enough, as if man could go no further before heaven till he exhausted the physical round of his own mortality in the obscure cities hidden in the ageing world . . . the few actual ecstatic conscious souls certain to be found, familiar . . .

returning after years to my own scene transfigured:
to hurry change to hurry the years bring me to my fate.
So I dream nightly of an embarcation, captains, captains, iron passageways, cabin lights, Brooklyn across the waters, the great dull boat, visitors, farewells, the blurred vast sea -- one trip a lifetime's loss or gain: as Europe is my own imagination -- many shall see her, many shall not -- though it's only the old familiar world and not some abstract mystical dream.
And in a moment of previsioning sleep I see that continent in rain, black streets, old night, a fading monument . . .
And a long journey unaccomplished yet, on antique was rolling in gray barren dunes under the world's waste of light toward ports of childish geography the rusty ship will harbor in . . .
What nights might I not see penniless among the Arab mysteries of dirty towns around the casbahs of the docks?
Clay paths, mud walls, the smell of green cigarettes, creosote and rank salt water -- dark structures overhead, shapes of machinery and façade of hull: and a bar lamp burning in the wooden shack across from the dim mountain of sulphur on the pier.
Toward what city will I travel? What wild houses do I go to occupy?

What vagrant rooms and streets and lights in the long night urge my expectation? What genius of sensation in ancient halls? what jazz beyond jazz in future blue saloons? what love in the cafes of God?
I thought, five years ago sitting in my apartment, my eyes were opened for an hour seeing in dreadful ecstasy the motionless buildings of New York rotting under the tides of Heaven.
There is a god dying in America already created in the imagination of men made palpable for adoration:
there is an inner anterior image of divinity beckoning me out to pilgrimage.
O future, unimaginable God.
Finca Tacalapan de San Leandro, Palenque, Chiapas, Mexico 1954 -- San Francisco 1955

II.

Jump in time to the immediate future, another poem:
return to the old land penniless and with a disconnected manuscript, the recollection of a few sensations, beginning: logboat down Rio Michol under plantain and drifting trees to the railroad, darkness on the sea looking toward the stations of the classic world -- another image descending in white mist down the lunar highway at dawn, above Lake Catemaco on the bus
-- it woke me up -- the far away likeness of a heavenly file of female saints stepping upward on miniature arches of a gold stairway into the starry sky, the thousands of little saintesses in blue hoods looking out at me and beckoning:

SALVATION!
It's true,
simple as in the image.
Then the mummies in their Pantheon at Guanajuato -- a city of Cortesian mines in the first crevasse of the Sierras, where I rested -- for I longed to see their faces before I left: these weren't mythical rock images, tho stone
-- limestone effigies out of the grave, remains of the fatal character -- newly resurrected, grasping their bodies with stiff arms, in soiled funeral clothes;
twisted, knock-kneed, like burning screaming lawyers -- what hallucinations of the nerves? -- indecipherable-sexed; one death-man had raised up his arms to cover his eyes, significant timeless reflex in sepulchre: apparitions of immortality consumed inward, waiting openmouthed in the fireless darkness.
Nearby, stacked symmetrically, a skullbone wall ending the whitewashed corridor under the graveyard
-- foetid smell reminiscent of sperm and drunkenness -- the skulls empty and fragile, numerous as shells,
-- so much life passed through this town . . .
The problem is isolation

-- there in the grave or here in oblivion of light.
Of eternity we have a numbered score of years and fewer tender moments -- one moment of tenderness and a year of intelligence and nerves: one moment of pure bodily tenderness -- I could dismiss Allen with grim pleasure.

Reminder: I knelt in my room on the patio at San Miguel at the keyhole: 2 A.M.
The old woman lit a candle.
Two young men and their girls waited before the portal, news from the street. She changed the linen, smiling.
What joy! The nakedness!
They dance! They talk and simper before the door, they lean on a leg, hand on a hip, and posture, nudity in their hearts, they clap a hand to head and whirl and enter, pushing each other,
happily, happily,
to a moment of love. . .

What solitude I've finally inherited.
Afterward fifteen hours on rubbled single lane, broken bus rocking along the maws and continental crags of mountain afternoon, the distant valleys fading, regnant peaks beyond to days on the Pacific where I bathed -- then riding, fitful, gazing, sleeping through the desert beside a wetback sad-faced old-man-youth, exhausted to Mexicali to stand near one night's dark shack on the garbage cliffs of bordertown overhanging the tin house poor man's village below, a last night's timewracked brooding and farewell, the end of a trip.

-- Returning armed with New Testament, critic of horse and mule, tanned and bearded satisfying Whitman, concerned with a few Traditions, metrical, mystical, manly
. . . and certain characteristic flaws -- enough!
The nation over the border grinds its arms and dreams of war: I see the fiery blue clash of metal wheels clanking in the industries of night, and detonation of infernal bombs . . . and the silent downtown of the States in watery dusk submersion.

Guanajuato -- Los Angeles, 1954

[NOTE: Uxmal and other proper names mentioned in the first part of the poem are those of ruined cities. Xbalba, translatable as morning Star in Region Obscure, or Hope, and pronounced Chivalvá, is the area in Chiapas between the Tobasco border and the Usumascintla River at the edge of the Peten Rain Forest; the boundary of lower Mexico and Guatemala today is thereabouts. The locale was considered a Purgatory or Limbo, the legend is vague, in the (Old) Mayan Empire. To the large tree at the crest of what is now called Mount Don Juan, at the foot of which this poem was written, ancient craftsmen came to complete work left unfinished at their death.]

ON BURROUGHS' WORK

The method must be purest meat and no symbolic dressing, actual visions & actual prisons as seen then and now.

Prisons and visions presented with rare descriptions corresponding exactly to those of Alcatraz and Rose.

A naked lunch is natural to us, we eat reality sandwiches.
But allegories are so much lettuce.
Don't hide the madness.

San Jose 1954

LOVE POEM ON THEME BY WHITMAN

I'll go into the bedroom silently and lie down between the bridegroom and the bride, those bodies fallen from heaven stretched out waiting naked and restless, arms resting over their eyes in the darkness, bury my face in their shoulders and breasts, breathing their skin, and stroke and kiss neck and mouth and make back be open and known, legs raised up crook'd to receive, cock in the darkness driven tormented and attacking roused up from hole to itching head, bodies locked shuddering naked, hot lips and buttocks screwed into each other and eyes, eyes glinting and charming, widening into looks and abandon, and moans of movement, voices, hands in air, hands between thighs, hands in moisture on softened lips, throbbing contraction of bellies till the white come flow in the swirling sheets, and the bride cry for forgiveness, and the groom be covered with tears of passion and compassion, and I rise up from the bed replenished with last intimate gestures and kisses of farewell -- all before the mind wakes, behind shades and closed doors in a darkened house where the inhabitants roam unsatisfied in the night, nude ghosts seeking each other out in the silence.

OVER KANSAS

Starting with eyeball kicks on storefronts from bus window on way to Oakland airport: I am no ego these are themselves stained grey wood and gilded nigger glass and barberpole thass all.
But then, Kiss Me Again in the dim brick lounge, muted modern music.
Where shall I fly not to be sad, my dear?
The other businessmen bend heavily over armchairs introducing women to cocktails in fluorescent shadow -- gaiety of tables, gaiety of fat necks, gaiety of departures, gaiety of national business, hands waving away jokes.
I'm getting maudlin on the soft rug watching, mixed rye before me on the little black table whereon lieth my briefcase containing market research notes and blank paper -- that airplane ride to come -- or a barefaced pilgrimage acrost imaginary plains I never made afoot into Kansas hallucination and supernatural deliverance.
Later: Hawthorne mystic waiting on the bench composing his sermon also with white bony fingers bitten, with hometown gold ring, in a blue serge suit and barely visible blond mustache on mental face, blank-eyed: pitiful thin body -- what body may he love? -- My god! the soft beauty in comparison -- that football boy in sunny yellow lovesuit puzzling out his Xmas trip death insurance by machine.
A virginal feeling again, I'd be willing to die aloft now.
Can't see outside in the dark, real dreary strangers about, and I'm unhappy flying away.

All this facility of travel too superficial for the heart I have for solitude.

Nakedness

must come again -- not sex, but some naked isolation.
And down there's Hollywood, the starry world below
-- expressing nakedness -- that craving, that glory that applause -- leisure, mind, appetite for dreams, bodies, travels: appetite for the real, created by the mind and kissed in coitus -- that craving, that melting!
Not even the human imagination satisfies the endless emptiness of the soul.
The West Coast behind me for five days while I return to ancient New York -- ah drunkenness!

I'll see your eyes again.

Hopeless comedown!

Travelling thru the dark void over Kansas yet moving nowhere in the dark void of the soul.

Angel woke me to see

-- past my own reflection, bald businessman with hornrims sleepy in round window view -- spectral skeleton of electricity illuminated nervous system floating on the void out of central brainplant powerhouse running into heaven's starlight overhead. 'Twas over Hutchinson.
Engine passed over lights, view gone.

Georgeous George on my plane.

And Chicago, the first time, smoking winter city
-- shivering in my tweed jacket walking by the airport around the block on Cicero under the fogged flat supersky of heaven -- another project for the heart, six months for here someday to make Chicago natural, pick up a few strange images.
Far off red signs on the orphan highway glimmer at the trucks of home.

Who rides that lone road now?
What heart? Who smokes and loves in Kansas auto now?
Who's talking magic under the night? Who walks downtown and drinks black beer in his eternity? Whose eyes Collect the streets and mountain tops for storage in his memory?
What sage in the darkness?
Someone who should collect my insurance!
Better I make a thornful pilgrimage on theory feet to suffer the total isolation of the bum, than this hipster business family journey
-- crossing U.S. at night -- in a sudden glimpse me being no one in the air nothing but clouds in the moonlight with humans fucking underneath. . . .

SF-NY December 1954

MALEST CORNIFICI TUO CATULLO

I'm happy, Kerouac, your madman Allen's finally made it: discovered a new young cat, and my imagination of an eternal boy walks on the streets of San Francisco, handsome, and meets me in cafeterias and loves me. Ah don't think I'm sickening.
You're angry at me. For all of my lovers?
It's hard to eat shit, without having visions; when they have eyes for me it's like Heaven.

SF 1955

DREAM RECORD: JUNE 8, 1955

A drunken night in my house with a boy, San Francisco: I lay asleep: darkness:

I went back to Mexico City and saw Joan Burroughs leaning forward in a garden-chair, arms on her knees. She studied me with clear eyes and downcast smile, her face restored to a fine beauty tequila and salt had made strange before the bullet in her brow.

We talked of the life since then.

Well, what's Burroughs doing now?

Bill on earth, he's in North Africa.

Oh, and Kerouac? Jack still jumps with the same beat genius as before, notebooks filled with Buddha.

I hope he makes it, she laughed.

Is Huncke still in the can? No, last time I saw him on Times Square.

And how is Kenney? Married, drunk and golden in the East. You? New loves in the West --

Then I knew

she was a dream: and questioned her -- Joan, what kind of knowledge have the dead? can you still love your mortal acquaintances?

What do you remember of us?

She

faded in front of me -- The next instant

I saw her rain-stained tombstone rear an illegible epitaph under the gnarled branch of a small tree in the wild grass of an unvisited garden in Mexico.

Blessed be the Muses
for their descent, dancing round my desk, crowning my balding head with Laurel.

FRAGMENT 1956

Now to the come of the poem, let me be worthy & sing holily the natural pathos of the human soul, naked original skin beneath our dreams & robes of thought, the perfect self identity radiant with lusts and intellectual faces Who carries the lines, the painful browed contortions of the upper eyes, the whole body breathing and sentient among flowers and buildings open-eyed, self knowing, trembling with love -- Soul that I have, that Jack has, Huncke has Bill has, Joan had, and has in me memory yet, bum has in rags, madman underneath black clothes.
Soul identical each to each, as standing on the streetcorner ten years ago I looked at Jack and told him we were the same person -- look in my eyes and speak to yourself, that makes me everybody's lover, Hal mine against his will, I had his soul in my own body already, while he frowned -- by the streetlamp 8th Avenue & 27th Street 1947 -- I had just come back from Africa with a gleam of the illumination actually to come to me in time as come to all -- Jack the worst murderer, Allen the most cowardly with a streak of yellow love running through my poems, a fag in the city, Joe Army screaming in anguish in Dannemora 1945 jailhouse, breaking his own white knuckle against the bars his dumb sad cellmate beaten by the guards an iron floor below, Gregory weeping in Tombs, Joan lidded under eyes of benzedrine harkening to the paranoia in the wall, Huncke from Chicago dreaming in Arcades of hellish Pokerino blue skinned Times Square light, Bill King yelling pale faced in the subway window final minute gape-death struggling to return, Morphy himself, arch suicide, expiring in blood on the Passaic, tragic & bewildered in last tears, attaining death that moment human, intellectual, bearded, who else was he then but himself?

A STRANGE NEW COTTAGE IN BERKELEY

All afternoon cutting bramble blackberries off a tottering brown fence under a low branch with its rotten old apricots miscellaneous under the leaves, fixing the drip in the intricate gut machinery of a new toilet; found a good coffeepot in the vines by the porch, rolled a big tire out of the scarlet bushes, hid my marijuana; wet the flowers, playing the sunlit water each to each, returning for godly extra drops for the stringbeans and daisies; three times walked round the grass and sighed absently: my reward, when the garden fed me its plums from the form of a small tree in the corner, an angel thoughtful of my stomach, and my dry and lovelorn tongue.

1956

SATHER GATE ILLUMINATION

Why do I deny manna to another?
Because I deny it to myself.
Why have I denied myself?
What other has rejected me?
Now I believe you are lovely, my soul, soul of Allen, Allen -- and you so beloved, so sweetened, so recalled to your true loveliness, your original nude breathing Allen will you ever deny another again?
Dear Walter, thanks for the message I forbid you not to touch me, man to man, True American.
The bombers jet through the sky in unison of twelve the pilots are sweating and nervous at the controls in the hot cabins.
Over what souls will they loose their loveless bombs?
The Campanile pokes its white granite (?) innocent head into the clouds for me to look at.
A cripple lady explains French grammar with a loud sweet voice: Regarder is to look -- the whole French language looks on the trees on the campus.
The girls' haunted voices make quiet dates for 2 O'clock -- yet one of them waves farewell and smiles at last -- her red skirt swinging shows how she loves herself.
Another encased in flashy scotch clothes clomps up the concrete in a hurry -- into the door -- poor dear! -- who will receive you in love's offices?
How many beautiful boys have I seen on this spot?
The trees seem on the verge of moving -- ah! they do move in the breeze.
Roar again of airplanes in the sky -- everyone looks up.
And do you know that all these rubbings of the eyes & painful gestures to the brow of suited scholars entering Dwinelle (Hall) are Holy Signs? -- anxiety and fear?
How many years have I got to float on this sweetened scene of trees & humans clomping above ground -- O I must be mad to sit here lonely in the void & glee & build up thoughts of love!
But what do I have to doubt but my own shiney eyes, what to lose but life which is a vision today this afternoon.
My stomach is light, I relax, new sentences spring forth out of the scene to describe spontaneous forms of Time -- trees, sleeping dogs, airplanes wandering thru the air, negroes with their lunch books of anxiety, apples and sandwiches, lunchtime, icecream, Timeless -- And even the ugliest will seek beauty -- 'What are you doing Friday night?'
asks the sailor in white school training cap & gilt buttons & blue coat, and the little ape in a green jacket and baggy pants and overloaded schoolbook satchel says 'Quartets.' Every Friday nite, beautiful quartets to celebrate and please my soul with all its hair -- Music! and then strides off, snapping pieces chocolate off a bar wrapped in Hershey brown paper and tinfoil, eating chocolate rose.
& how can those other boys be them happy selves in their brown army study uniforms?
Now cripple girl swings down walk with loping fuck gestures of her hips askew -- let her roll her eyes in abandon & camp angelic through the campus bouncing her body about in joy -- someone will dig that pelvic energy for sure.

Those white stripes down your chocolate cupcake, Lady (held in front of your nose finishing sentence preparatory to chomp), they were painted there to delight you by some spanish industrial artistic hand in bakery factory faraway, expert hand in simple-minded messages of white stripes on millions of message cupcakes.
I have a message for you all -- I will denote one particularity of each!
And there goes Professor Hart striding enlightened by the years through the doorway and arcade he built (in his mind) and knows -- he too saw the ruins of Yucatan once -- followed by a lonely janitor in dovegrey italian fruitpeddlar Chico Marx hat pushing his rollypoly belly thru the trees.
N sees all girls as visions of their inner cunts, yes, it's true!
and all men walking along thinking of their spirit cocks.
So look at that poor dread boy with two-day black hair all over his dirty face, how he must hate his cock -- Chinamen stop shuddering and now to bring this to an end with a rise and an ellipse -- The boys are now all talking to the girls 'If I was a girl I'd love all boys' & girls giggling the opposite, all pretty everywhichway and even I have my secret beds and lovers under another moonlight, be you sure & any minute I expect to see a baby carriage pushed on to the scene and everyone turn in attention like the airplanes and laughter, like a Greek Campus and the big brown shaggy silent dog lazing openeyed in the shade lift up his head & sniff & lower his head on his golden paws & let his belly rumble away unconcerned.
. . . the lion's ruddy eyes Shall flow with tears of gold.
Now the silence is broken, students pour onto the square, the doors are crowded, the dog gets up and walks away, the cripple swings out of Dwinelle, a nun even, I wonder about her, an old lady distinguished by a cane, we all look up, silence moves, huge changes upon the ground, and in the air thoughts fly all over filling space.
My grief at Peter's not loving me was grief at not loving myself.
Huge Karmas of broken minds in beautiful bodies unable to receive love because not knowing the self as lovely -- Fathers and Teachers!
Seeing in people the visible evidence of inner self thought by their treatment of me: who loves himself loves me who love myself.

1956

SCRIBBLE

Rexroth's face reflecting human tired bliss White haired, wing browed gas mustache, flowers jet out of his sad head, listening to Edith Piaf street song as she walks the universe with all life gone and cities disappeared only the God of Love left smiling.

AFTERNOON SEATTLE

Busride along waterfront down Yessler under street bridge to the old red Wobbly Hall -- One Big Union, posters of the Great Mandala of Labor, bleareyed dusty cardplayers dreaming behind the counter . .
. 'but these young fellers can't see ahead and we nothing to offer' -- After Snyder his little red beard and bristling Buddha mind I weeping crossed Skid Road to 10c. beer.
Labyrinth wood stairways and Greek movies under Farmers Market second hand city, Indian smoked salmon old overcoats and dry red shoes, Green Parrot Theater, Maytime, and down to the harborside the ships, walked on Alaska silent together -- ferryboat coming faraway in mist from Bremerton Island dreamlike small on the waters of Holland to me -- and entered my head the seagull, a shriek, sentinels standing over rusty harbor iron clockwork, rocks dripping under rotten wharves slime on the walls -- the seagull's small cry -- inhuman not of the city, lone sentinels of God, animal birds among us indifferent, their bleak lone cries representing our souls.
A rowboat docked and chained floating in the tide by a wharf. Basho's frog. Someone left it there, it drifts.
Sailor's curio shop hung with shells and skulls a whalebone mask, Indian seas. The cities rot from oldest parts. Little red mummy from Idaho Frank H. Little your big hat high cheekbones crosseyes and song.
The cities rot from the center, the suburbs fall apart a slow apocalypse of rot the spectral trolleys fade the cities rot the fire escapes hang and rust the brick turns black dust falls uncollected garbage heaps the wall the birds invade with their cries the skid row alley creeps downtown the ancient jailhouse groans bums snore under the pavement a dark Turkish bath the cornice gapes at midnight Seattle! -- department stores full of fur coats and camping equipment, mad noontime businessmen in gabardine coats talking on streetcorners to keep up the structure, I float past, birds cry, Salvation Army offers soup on rotting block, six thousand beggars groan at a meal of hopeful beans.

1956

PSALM III

To God: to illuminate all men. Beginning with Skid Road.
Let Occidental and Washington be transformed into a higher place, the plaza of eternity.
Illuminate the welders in shipyards with the brilliance of their torches.
Let the crane operator lift up his arm for joy.
Let elevators creak and speak, ascending and descending in awe.
Let the mercy of the flower's direction beckon in the eye.
Let the straight flower bespeak its purpose in straightness -- to seek the light.
Let the crooked flower bespeak its purpose in crookedness -- to seek the light.
Let the crookedness and straightness bespeak the light.
Let Puget Sound be a blast of light.
I feed on your Name like a cockroach on a crumb -- this cockroach is holy.

Seattle 1956

TEARS

I'm crying all the time now.
I cried all over the street when I left the Seattle Wobbly Hall.
I cried listening to Bach.
I cried looking at the happy flowers in my backyard, I cried at the sadness of the middle-aged trees.
Happiness exists I feel it.
I cried for my soul, I cried for the world's soul.
The world has a beautiful soul.
God appearing to be seen and cried over. Overflowing heart of Paterson.

Arctic, 1956

READY TO ROLL

To Mexico! To Mexico! Down the dovegrey highway, past Atomic City police, past the firey border to dream cantinas!

Standing on the sunny metropolitan plateau, stranger prince on the street, dollars in my pocket, alone, free -- genitals and thighs and buttocks under skin and leather.

Music! Taxis! Marijuana in the slums! Ancient sexy parks!
Continental boulevards in America! Modern downtown for a dollar! Dungarees in Les Ambassadeurs! And here's a hard brown cock for a quarter!

Drunkenness! and the long night walks down brown streets, eyes, windows, buses, interior charnels behind the Cathedral, lost squares and hungry tacos, a calf's head cooked and picked apart for meat, and the blackened inner roofs and tents of the Thieves' Market, street crisscrossed on street, a naked hipster labyrinth, stealing, pausing, loitering, noticing drums, purchasing nothing but a broken aluminum coffee pot with a doll's arm sticking up out of the mouth.

Haha! what do I want? Change of solitude, spectre of drunkenness in paranoiac taxicabs, fear and gaiety of unknown lovers coming around the empty streetcorner dark-eyed and watching me make it there alone under the new hip moon.

S.F. 1956

WROTE THIS LAST NIGHT

Listen to the tale of the sensitive car who was coughed up out of earth in Pittsburgh.
She screamed like a Swedish Prime Minister on her first flight down the red neon highway, she couldn't stand the sirens and blind lights of the male cars Fords Oldsmobiles Studebakers -- her assembly line foreman had prophesied wild wreck on Sunset Boulevard headlights & eyeballs broken fenders & bones.

She rode all over Mexico avoiding Los Angeles praying to be an old junkie in a bordertown graveyard with rattley doors and yellow broken windowpanes bent license plate weak brakes & unsaleable motor worn out by the slow buttocks of teen-age nightmare panting under the impoverished jissom of the August moon, Anything but that final joyride with the mad producer and his bombshell intellectual star on the last night up from Mexicali.

SQUEAL

He rises he stretches he liquefies he is hammered again He's divided in shares he litters the floor of the Bourse He's cut by adamantine snips and sent by railway car Accumulated on the margin by bony Goldfinger has various Visions of being an automobile consolidates The fortune of spectral lawyers heirs weep over him He melts he undergoes remarkable metamorphoses peculiar Hallucinations he coughs up debentures beaten By immense hammers in a vast loft pours in fire spurts Upward in molten forges he levels he dreams and he cools And the present adjusted steel squints.
A hunchback tuberculosis salesman drives him cackling to St Louis
In the rain Hack no will of his own Creep next resale Crank San Pedro tomorrow St Joe Squeak will it never end Hohokus -- Crashes into a dirty locomotive the bastard never Mind stock averages decline slightly here's the mechanic Blam the junkyard Help the smelter later a merger pressure accumulates
He's had it now Eek he's an airplane Whine he wants to go home Suddenly he dives on the market like a bomb.

1958

AMERICAN CHANGE

The first I looked on, after a long time far from home in mid Atlantic on a summer day Dolphins breaking the glassy water under the blue sky, a gleam of silver in my cabin, fished up out of my jangling new pocket of coins and green dollars -- held in my palm, the head of the feathered indian, old Buck-Rogers eagle eyed face, a gash of hunger in the cheek gritted jaw of the vanished man begone like a Hebrew with hairlock combed down the side -- O Rabbi Indian what visionary gleam 100 years ago on Buffalo prairie under the molten cloud shot sky, 'the same clear light 10000 miles in all directions' but now with all the violin music of Vienna, gone into the great slot machine of Kansas City, Reno -- The coin seemed so small after vast European coppers thick francs leaden pesetas, lira endless and heavy, a miniature primeval memorialized in 5c. nickle candy-store nostalgia of the redskin, dead on silver coin, with shaggy buffalo on reverse, hump-backed little tail incurved, head butting against the rondure of Eternity, cock forelock below, bearded shoulder muscle folded below muscle, head of prophet, bowed, vanishing beast of Time, hoar body rubbed clean of wrinkles and shining like polished stone, bright metal in my forefinger, ridiculous buffalo -- to New York.
Dime next I found, Minerva, sexless cold & chill, ascending goddess of money -- and was it the wife of Wallace Stevens, truly?
and now from the locks flowing the miniature wings of speedy thought, executive dyke, Minerva, goddess of Madison Avenue, forgotten useless dime that can't buy hot dog, dead dime -- Then we've George Washington, less primitive, the snubnosed quarter, smug eyes and mouth, some idiot's design of the sexless Father, naked down to his neck, a ribbon in his wig, high forehead, Roman line down the nose, fat checked, still showing his falsetooth ideas -- O Eisenhower & Washington -- O Fathers -- No movie star dark beauty -- O thou Bignoses -- Quarter, remembered quarter, 40c. in all -- What'll you buy me when I land -- one icecream soda? -- poor pile of coins, original reminders of the sadness, forgotten money of America -- nostalgia of the first touch of those coins, American change, the memory in my aging hand, the same old silver reflective there, the thin dime hidden between my thumb and forefinger All the struggles for those coins, the sadness of their reappearance my reappearance on those fabled shores and the failure of that Dream, that Vision of Money reduced to this haunting recollection of the gas lot in Paterson where I found half a dollar gleaming in the grass -- I have a $5 bill in my pocket -- it's Lincoln's sour black head moled wrinkled, forelocked too, big eared, flags of announcement flying over the bill, stamps in green and spiderweb black, long numbers in racetrack green, immense promise, a girl, a hotel, a busride to Albany, a night of brilliant drunk in some faraway corner of Manhattan a stick of several teas, or paper or cap of Heroin, or a $5 strange present to the blind.

Money money, reminder, I might as well write poems to you -- dear American money -- O statue of Liberty I ride enfolded in money in my mind to you -- and last Ahhh! Washington again, on the Dollar, same poetic black print, dark words, The United States of America, innumerable numbers R956422481 One Dollar This Certificate is Legal Tender (tender!) for all debts public and private My God My God why have you foresaken me Ivy Baker Priest Series 1935 F and over, the Eagle, wild wings outspread, halo of the Stars encircled by puffs of smoke & flame -- a circle the Masonic Pyramid, the sacred Swedenborgian Dollar America, bricked up to the top, & floating surreal above the triangle of holy outstaring Eye sectioned out of the aire, shining light emitted from the eyebrowless triangle -- and a desert of cactus, scattered all around, clouds afar, this being the Great Seal of our Passion, Annuity Coeptes, Novis Ordo Seclorum, the whole surrounded by green spiderwebs designed by T-Men to prevent foul counterfeit -- ONE

S.S United States, 1958

'BACK ON TIMES SQUARE, DREAMING OF TIMES SQUARE'

Let some sad trumpeter stand on the empty streets at dawn and blow a silver chorus to the buildings of Times Square, memorial of ten years, at 5 AM, with the thin white moon just visible above the green & grooking McGraw Hill offices a cop walks by, but he's invisible with his music
The Globe Hotel, Garver lay in grey beds there and hunched his back and cleaned his needles -- where I lay many nights on the nod from his leftover bloody cottons and dreamed of Blake's voice talking -- I was lonely, Garver's dead in Mexico two years, hotel's vanished into a parking lot And I'm back here -- sitting on the streets again --
The movies took our language, the great red signs
A DOUBLE BILL OF GASSERS Teen Age Nightmare
Hooligans of the Moon
But we were never nightmare hooligans but seekers of the blond nose for Truth Some old men are still alive, but the old Junkies are gone -- We are a legend, invisible but legendary, as prophecied

NY 1958

MY SAD SELF

To Frank O'Hara

Sometimes when my eyes are red I go up on top of the RCA Building and gaze at my world, Manhattan -- my buildings, streets I've done feats in, lofts, beds, coldwater flats
-- on Fifth Ave below which I also bear in mind, its ant cars, little yellow taxis, men walking the size of specks of wool -- Panorama of the bridges, sunrise over Brooklyn machine, sun go down over New Jersey where I was born & Paterson where I played with ants -- my later loves on 15th Street, my greater loves of Lower East Side, my once fabulous amours in the Bronx faraway -- paths crossing in these hidden streets, my history summed up, my absences and ecstasies in Harlem -- -- sun shining down on all I own in one eyeblink to the horizon in my last eternity -- matter is water.
Sad,
I take the elevator and go down, pondering, and walk on the pavements staring into all man's plateglass, faces, questioning after who loves, and stop, bemused in front of an automobile shopwindow standing lost in calm thought, traffic moving up & down 5th Avenue blocks behind me waiting for a moment when. . . .
Time to go home & cook supper & listen to the romantic war news on the radio . . . all movement stops & I walk in the timeless sadness of existence, tenderness flowing thru the buildings, my fingertips touching reality's face, my own face streaked with tears in the mirror of some window -- at dusk -- where I have no desire for bonbons -- or to own the dresses or Japanese lampshades of intellection -- Confused by the spectacle around me, Man struggling up the street with packages, newspapers, ties, beautiful suits toward his desire

Man, woman, streaming over the pavements red lights clocking hurried watches & movements at the curb -- And all these streets leading so crosswise, honking, lengthily, by avenues stalked by high buildings or crusted into slums thru such halting traffic screaming cars and engines so painfully to this countryside, this graveyard this stillness on deathbed or mountain once seen never regained or desired in the mind to come where all Manhattan that I've seen must disappear.

NY 1958

BATTLESHIP NEWSREEL

I was high on tea in my foc'sle near the forepeak hatch listening to the stars envisioning the kamakazis flapping and turning in the soiled clouds ackack burst into fire a vast hole ripped out of the bow like a burning lily we dumped our oilcans of nitroglycerine among the waving octapi dull thud and boom of thunder undersea the cough of the tubercular machinegunner flames in the hold among the cans of ether the roar of battleships far away rolling in the sea like whales surrounded by dying ants the screams the captain mad Suddenly a golden light came over the ocean and grew large the radiance entered the sky a deathly chill and heaviness entered my body I could scarce lift my eye and the ship grew sheathed in light like an overexposed photograph fading in the brain.

1959

I BEG YOU COME BACK & BE CHEERFUL

Tonite I got hi in the window of my apartment chair at 3: AM gazing at Blue incandescent torches bright-lit street below clotted shadows looming on a new laid pave -- as last week Medieval rabbiz plodded thru the brown raw dirt turned over -- sticks & cans and tired ladies sitting on spanish garbage pails -- in the deadly heat -- one month ago the fire hydrants were awash -- the sun at 3 P.M. today in a haze -- now all dark outside, a cat crosses the street silently -- I meow and she looks up, and passes a pile of rubble on the way to a golden shining garbage pail (phosphor in the night & alley stink)
(or door-can mash)
-- Thinking America is a chaos Police clog the streets with their anxiety, Prowl cars creak & halt: Today a woman, 20, slapped her brother playing with his infant bricks -- toying with a huge rock -- 'Don't do that now! the cops! the cops!'
And there was no cop there -- I looked around my shoulder -- a pile of crap in the opposite direction.
Tear gas! Dynamite! Mustaches!
I'll grow a beard and carry lovely bombs,
I will destroy the world, slip in between the cracks of death And change the Universe -- Ha!
I have the secret, I carry Subversive salami in my ragged briefcase
'Garlic, Poverty, a will to Heaven,' a strange dream in my meat: Radiant clouds, I have heard God's voice in my sleep, or Blake's awake, or my own or the dream of a delicatessen of snorting cows and bellowing pigs -- The chop of a knife a finger severed in my brain -- a few deaths I know -- O brothers of the Laurel Is the world real?
Is the Laurel

a joke or a crown of thorns? -- Fast, pass up the ass Down I go Cometh Woe
-- the street outside, me spying on New York.
The dark truck passes snarling & vibrating deep --

What
 if the worlds were a series of steps
 What
 if
 the steps joined back at the Margin

Leaving us flying like birds into Time -- eyes and car headlights -- The shrinkage of emptiness in the Nebulae These Galaxies cross like pinwheels & they pass like gas -- What forests are born.

September 15, 1959

TO AN OLD POET IN PERU

Because we met at dusk Under the shadow of the railroad station clock While my shade was visiting Lima And your ghost was dying in Lima old face needing a shave And my young beard sprouted magnificent as the dead hair in the sands of Chancay Because I mistakenly thought you were melancholy Saluting your 60 year old feet which smell of the death of spiders on the pavement And you saluted my eyes with your anisette voice Mistakenly thinking I was genial for a youth (my rock and roll is the motion of an angel flying in a modern city) (your obscure shuffle is the motion of a seraphim that has lost its wings)
I kiss you on your fat cheek (once more tomorrow Under the stupendous Disaguaderos clock) Before I go to my death in an airplane crash in North America (long ago) And you go to your heart-attack on an indifferent street in South America (Both surrounded by screaming communists with flowers in their ass)
-- you much sooner than I -- or a long night alone in a room in the old hotel of the world watching a black door
. . . surrounded by scraps of paper DIE GREATLY IN THY SOLITUDE Old Man,
I prophesy Reward
Vaster than the sands of Pachacamac Brighter than a mask of hammered gold Sweeter than the joy of armies naked fucking on the battlefield Swifter than a time passed between old Nasca night and new Lima in the dusk Stranger than our meeting by the Presidential Palace in an old cafe ghosts of an old illusion, ghosts of indifferent love -- THE DAZZLING INTELLIGENCE Migrates from Death
To make a sign of Life again to you Fierce and beautiful as a car crash in the Plaza de Armas I swear that I have seen that Light I will not fail to kiss your hideous cheek when your coffin's closed

And the human mourners go back to their old tired Dream.
And you wake in the Eye of the Dictator of the Universe.
Another stupid miracle! I'm mistaken again!
Your indifference! my enthusiasm! I insist! You cough!
Lost in the wave of Gold that flows thru the Cosmos.
Agh I'm tire of insisting! Goodby, I'm going to Pucallpa to have Visions.
Your clean sonnets?
I want to read your dirtiest secret scribblings, your Hope, in His most Obscene Magnificence. My God!

May 19, 1960

Note: Chancay, Pachacamic, Nasca -- Pre-incaic cultures of coastal desert Peru. Myriad relics found by graverobbers opening the sand of these necropolises.

AETHER

11:15 PM May 27

4 Sniffs & I'm High, Underwear in bed, white cotton in left hand, archtype degenerate, bloody taste in my mouth of Dentist Chair music, Loud Farts of Eternity -- an owl with eyeglasses scribbling in the cold darkness -- All the time the sound in my eardrums of trolleycars below taxi fender cough -- creak of streets -- Laughter & pistol shots echoing at all walls -- tic leaks of neon -- the voice of Myriad rushers of the Brainpan all the chirps the crickets have created ringing against my eares in the instant before unconsciousness before, -- the teardrop in the eye to come, -- the Fear of the Unknown -- One does not yet know whether Christ was God or the Devil -Buddha is more reassuring.
Yet the experiments must continue!
Every possible combination of Being -- all the old ones! all the old Hindu Sabahadabadie-pluralic universes ringing in Grandiloquent Bearded Juxtaposition, with all their minarets and moonlit towers enlaced with iron or porcelain embroidery, all have existed -- and the Sages with white hair who sat crosslegged on a female couch -- hearkening to whatever music came from out the Wood or Street, whatever bird that whistled in the Marketplace, whatever note the clock struck to say Time -- whatever drug, or aire, they breathed to make them think so deep or simply hear what passed, like a car passing in the 1960 street beside the Governmental Palace in Peru, this Lima year I write.
Kerouac! I salute yr wordy beard. Sad Prophet!
Salutations and low bows from baggy pants and turbaned mind and hornèd foot arched eyebrows & Jewish Smile -- One single specimen of Eternity -- each of us poets.

Breake the Rhythm! (too much pentameter)
. . . My god what solitude are you in Kerouac now?
-- heard the whoosh of carwheels in the 1950 rain -- And every bell went off on time, And everything that was created Rang especially in view of the Creation For
This is the end of the creation This is the redemption Spoken of This is the view of the Created by all the Drs, nurses, etc of creation; i.e.,

--
The unspeakable passed over my head for the second time.
and still can't say it! i.e. we are the sweepings of the moon we're what's left over from perfection -- The universe is an OLD mistake I've understood a million times before and always come back to the same scissor brainwave--
The
Sooner or later all Consciousness will be eliminated because Consciousness is a by-product of -- (Cotton & N2O)
Drawing saliva back from the tongue -- Christ! you struggle to understand One consciousness & be confronted with Myriads -- after a billion years with the same ringing in the ears and pterodactyl-smile of Oops Creation, known it all before.
A Buddha as of old, with sirens of whatever machinery making cranging noises in the street and pavement light reflected in the facade RR Station window in a dinky port in Backwash of the murky old forgotten fabulous whatever Civilization of Eternity, -- with the RR Sta Clock ring midnight, as of now, & waiting for the 6th you write your Word, and end on the last chime -- and remember

This one twelve was struck before, and never again; both.
.....I stood on the balcony waiting for an explosion of Total Consciousness of the All -- being Ginsberg sniffing ether in Lima.
The same struggle of Mind, to reach the Thing that ends its process with an X comprehending its before and afters, unexplainable to each, except in a prophetic secret recollective hidden half-hand unrecorded. way.
As the old sages of Asia, or the white beards of Persia scribbled on the margins of their scrolls in delicate ink remembering with tears the ancient clockbells of their cities and the cities that had been -- Nasca, Paracas, Chancay & Secrecy of the Priests buried, Cat Gods of all colors, a funeral shroud for a museum -- None remember but all return to the same thought before they die --what sad old knowledge, we repeat again.
Only to be lost in the sands of Paracas, or wrapped in a mystic shroud of Poesy
and found by some kid in a thousand years inspire what dreadful thoughts of his own?
It's a horrible, lonely experience. And Gregory's letter, and Peter's . . .
May 28 7:30 PM
...In the foul dregs of Circumstance
'Male and Female He created them' with mustaches.
There ARE certain REPEATED (pistol shot) reliable points of reference which the insane (pistol shot repeated outside the window) -- madman suddenly writes -- THE PISTOL SHOT outside -- the REPEATED situations the experience of return to the same place in Universal Creation Time -- and every time we return we recognise again that we HAVE been here & that is the Key to Creation -- the same pistol shot -- DOWN, bending over his book of Un intelligible marvels with his mustache.
(my) Madness is intelligible reactions to Unintelligible phenomena.
Boy -- what a marvellous bottle, a clear glass sphere of transparent liquid ether -- (Chloroethyl Merz)

9 PM

I know I am a poet -- in this universe -- but what good does that do -- when in another, without these mechanical aids, I might be doomed to be a poor Disneyan Shoe Store Clerk -- This consciousness an accident of one of the Etherpossible worlds, not the Final World Wherein we all look Crosseyed & triumph in our Virginity without wearing Rabbit's-foot ears or eyes looking sideways strangely but in Gold Humbled & more knowledgeable, acknowledge the Vast mystery of our creation -- without giving any sign that we have heard from the GREAT CREATOR
WHOSE NAME I NOW PRONOUNCE: GREAT CREATOR OF THE UNIVERSES, IF THY WISDOM ACCORD IT AND IF THIS NOT BE TOO MUCH TO ASK
MAY I PUBLISH YOUR NAME?
I ASK IN THE LIMA NIGHT
FEARFULLY WAITING ANSWER, hearing the buses out on the street hissing, Knowing the Terror of the World Afar -- I have been playing with Jokes and His is too mighty to hold in the hand like a Pen and His is the Pistol Shot Answer that brings blood to the brain And--

What can be possible in a minor universe in which you can see God by sniffing the gas in a cotton?
The answer to be taken in reverse & Doubled Math ematically both ways.
Am I a sinner?
There are hard & easy universes. This is neither.
(If I close my eyes will I regain consciousness?) That's the Final Question -- with all the old churchbells ringing and bus pickup snuffles & crack of iron whips inside cylinders & squeal of brakes and old crescendos of responsive demiurgic ecstasy whispering in streets of ear -- and when was it Not ever answered in the Affirmative? Saith the Lord?

A MAGIC UNIVERSE

Flies & crickets & the sound of buses & my stupid beard.

But what's Magic?

Is there Sorrow in Magic?

Is Magic one of my boyscout creations?

Am I responsible? I with my flop?

Could Threat happen to Magic?

Yes! this the one universe in which there is threat to magic, by writing while high.

A Universe in which I am condemned to write statements.

'Ignorant Judgements Create Mistaken Worlds--' and this one is joined in Indic union to Affirm with laughing eyes --

The world is as we see it,

Male & Female, passing thru the years, as has before & will, perhaps with all its countless pearls & Bloody noses and I poor stupid All in G am stuck with that old Choice -- Ya, Crap, what Hymn to seek, & in what tongue, if this's the most

I can requite from Consciousness? --

'That I can skim? & put in words?

Could skim it faster with more juice -- could skim a crop with Death, perchance

-- yet never know in this old world.

Will know in Death?

And before?

Will in Another know.

And in another know.

And

in another know.

And

Stop conceiving worlds!

says Philip Whalen

(My Savior!) (oh what snobbery!)

(as if he cd save Anyone) --

At least, he won't understand.

I lift my finger in the air to create a universe he won't understand, full of sadness.

-- finally staring straight ahead in surprise & recollection into the mirror of the Hotel Commercio room.

Time repeats itself. Including this consciousness, which has seen itself before -- thus the locust-whistle of antiquity's nightwatch in my eardrum . . .

I propounded a final question, and heard a series of final answers.

What is God? for instance, asks the answer?

And whatever else can the replier reply but reply?
Whatever the nature of mind, that the nature of both question and answer.
& yet one wants to live in a single universe Does one?
Must it be one?
Why, as with the Jews must the God be One?
O what does the concept ONE mean?
IT'S MAD!
GOD IS ONE!
IS X IS MEANINGLESS -- ADONOI -- IS A JOKE -- THE HEBREWS ARE WRONG -- (CRIST & BUDDA ATTEST, also wrongly!)
What is One but Formation of mind? arbitrary madness! 6000 years Spreading out in all directions simultaneously -- I forgive both good & ill & I seek nothing, like a painted savage with spear crossed by orange black & white bands!
'I found the Jivaros & was entrapped in their universe' I'm scribbling nothings.
Page upon page of profoundest nothing, as scribed the Ancient Hebe, when he wrote Adonoi Echad or One -- all to amuse, make money, or deceive -- Let Wickedness be Me and this the worst of all the universes!
Not the worst! Not Flame!
I can't stand that -- (Yes that's for Somebody Else!
Yet I accept
O Catfaced God, whatever comes! It's me!
I am the Flame, etc.
O Gawd!
Pistol shot! Crack!
Circusmaster's whip -- IMPERFECT! and a soul is damned to HELL!
And the churchbell rings!
and there is melancholy, once again, throughout the realm. and I'm that soul, small as it is.
HAVE FELT SAME BEFORE
The death of consciousness is terrible and yet! when all is ended what regret?

'S none left to remember or forget.
And's gone into the odd.
The only thing I fear is the Last Chance. I'll see that last chance too before I'm done, Old Mind. All them old Last Chances that you knew before.
-- someday thru the dream wall to nextdoor consciousness like thru this blue hotel wall -- millions of hotel rooms fogging the focus of my eyes -- with whatever attitude I hold the cotton to my nose, it's still a secret joke with pinky akimbo, or with effete queer eye in mirror at myself, or serious-brow mein & darkened beard, I'm still the kid of obscene chance awaiting -- breathing in a chinese Universe thru the nose like some old Brahamic God.
O BELL TIME RING THY MIDNIGHT FOR THE BILLIONTH SOUNDY TIME, I HEAR AGAIN!
I'll go to walk the street, Who'll find me in the night, in Lima, in my 33'd year,
On Street (Cont.)
The souls of Peter & I answer each other.
But -- and what's a soul?
To be a poet's a serious occupation, condemned to that in universe -- to walk the city ascribing in a book -- just accosted by a drunk -- in Plaza de Armas sidestreet under a foggy sky, and sometimes with no moon.
The heavy balcony hangs over the white marble of the Bishop's Palace next the Cathedral -- The fountain plays in light as e'er -- The buss & the motorcyclists pass thru midnight, the carlights shine the beggar turns

a corner with his cigarette stub & cane, the Noisers leave the tavern and delay, conversing in high voice, Awake,
Hasta Manana
they all say -- and somewhere at the other end of the line, a telephone is ringing, once again with unknown news -- The night looms over Lima, sky black fog -- and I sit helpless smoking with a pencil hand --
The long crack in the pavement or yesterday's Volcano in Chile, or the day before the Earthquake that begat the World.
The Plaza pavement shines in the electric light. I wait.
The lonely beard workman staggers home to bed from Death.
Yes but I'm a little tired of being alone . . .
Keats' Nightingale -- the instant of realization a single consciousness that hears the chimes of Time, repeated endlessly -- All night, w/ Ether, wave after wave of magic understanding. A disturbance of the field of consciousness.
Magic night, magic stars, magic men, magic music, magic tomorrow, magic death, magic Magic.
What crude Magic we live in (seeing trolley like a rude monster in downtown street w/ electric diamond wire antennae to sky pass night café under white arc-light by Gran Hotel Bolivar.)

The mad potter of Mochica made a pot w/ 6 Eyes & 2 Mouths & half a Nose & 5 Cheeks & no Chin for us to figure out, serious side-track, blind alley Kosmos.
(Back in Room)

How the strange to remember anything, even a button much less a universe.

'What creature gives birth to itself?'

The universe is mad, slightly mad.

-- and the two sides wriggle away in opposite directions to die lopped off the blind metallic length curled up feebly & wiggling its feet in the grass

the millepede's black head moving inches away on the staircase at Macchu Picchu the Creature feels itself destroyed,

head & tail of the universe cut in two.

Men with slick mustaches of mystery have pimp horrible climaxes & Karmas --

-- the mad magician that created Chaos in the peaceful void & suave.

with my fucking suave manners & knowitall eyes, and mind full of fantasy -- the Me! that horror that keeps me conscious in this Hell of Birth & Death.

34 coming up -- I suddenly felt old -- sitting with Walter & Raquel in Chinese Restaurant -- they kissed -- I alone
-- age of Burroughs when we first met.

Hotel Comercio
Lima, Peru
May 28, 1960

Table of Contents

My Alba
Sakyamuni Coming out from the Mountain
The Green Automobile
Havana
Siesta in Xbalba
On Burroughs' Work
Love Poem on Theme By Whitman
Over Kansas
Malest Cornifici Tuo Catullo
Dream Record
Blessed be the muses
Fragment 1956
A Strange New Cottage in Berkeley
Sather Gate Illumination
Scribble
Afternoon Seattle
Psalm III
Tears
Ready To Roll
Wrote This Last Night
Squeal
American Change
'Back on Times Square, Dreaming of Times Square'
My Sad Self
Funny Death
Battleship Newsreel
I Beg You Come Back & Be Cheerful
To An Old Poet in Peru
Aether